Kentucky Woodlands Magazine
Volume 2 Issue 1

From the Editors of
Kentucky Woodlands Magazine

This magazine is dedicated to the 400,000+ individuals that own the majority of Kentucky's woodlands. Your woodlands provide the Commonwealth and its citizens with significant economic and environmental benefits and the majority of Kentuckians have no idea of the critical role you play in maintaining their way of life. The Kentucky Woodlands Magazine is devoted to providing information and solutions to the challenges of owning and enjoying your woodlands and providing our society with clean water, wildlife habitat, aesthetic beauty and ecosystem stability.

In 2007, Kentucky Woodlands Magazine will continue to focus on providing you with solutions to ongoing problems such as invasive species control, information on managing and generating a diversity of incomes from your woodlands, identifying recreational opportunities, utilizing Firewise techniques on your property and managing for special places and wildlife habitats.

The magazine will also provide you with updates on ongoing issues and programs for woodland owners.

On behalf of the University of Kentucky's Department of Forestry and the Kentucky Division of Forestry, the editors of Kentucky Woodlands Magazine commend you for the efforts you put forth to manage our woodlands, and we hope that this magazine will help make your efforts more rewarding.

About the Cover:
Diana L. Olszowy, Environmental Control Branch Manager, Kentucky Division of Forestry contributed the cover photograph of Springtime in Knott County. This photograph was taken along Highway 80 West, near the Floyd County line. Floyd County's Elkhorn Park, near where this photo was taken, is the host of one of the Woodland Owners Short Course programs being offered this year. See the article on page 8 and the insert in the middle of the magazine.
